Single Window to the Technical Textile and Nonwoven Industry in India

The sustained growth of the Indian economy has brought the country at a common stand point with the global economic giants. The target of sustained double digit growth has been projected to be accomplished through a quantum growth in the infrastructure sector. For building world class infrastructure, geotextiles have gained increased importance in global infrastructure development, be it roads and bridges, ports and waterways, landfills, water works etc. Massive growth in the Indian infrastructure sector has opened new windows of opportunities for India as a vast, nascent yet ever expanding market for geotextiles owing to their vivid functions, namely separation, filtration, drainage, reinforcement & protection.

In order to bring the immature and fragmented market of geotextiles face-to-face with the suppliers and experts, a one day international symposium on 'Geotextiles in India- What, Where & Why' will be jointly organised by BCH and India Tech Foundation on the 17th October, 2008 at MMRDA Exhibition Grounds, Bandra-Kurla Complex, Mumbai during CONSTRU India 2008 which is India's leading construction materials platform.

Symposium Highlights

- Worldwide trends in the adoption of geotextiles for infrastructure projects
- Various products available internationally, their classification, functions & applications
- Latest developments on the products & applications front
- Standards & specifications for testing & installation of geotextiles
- Changing Indian Scenario
- Future prospects in India
